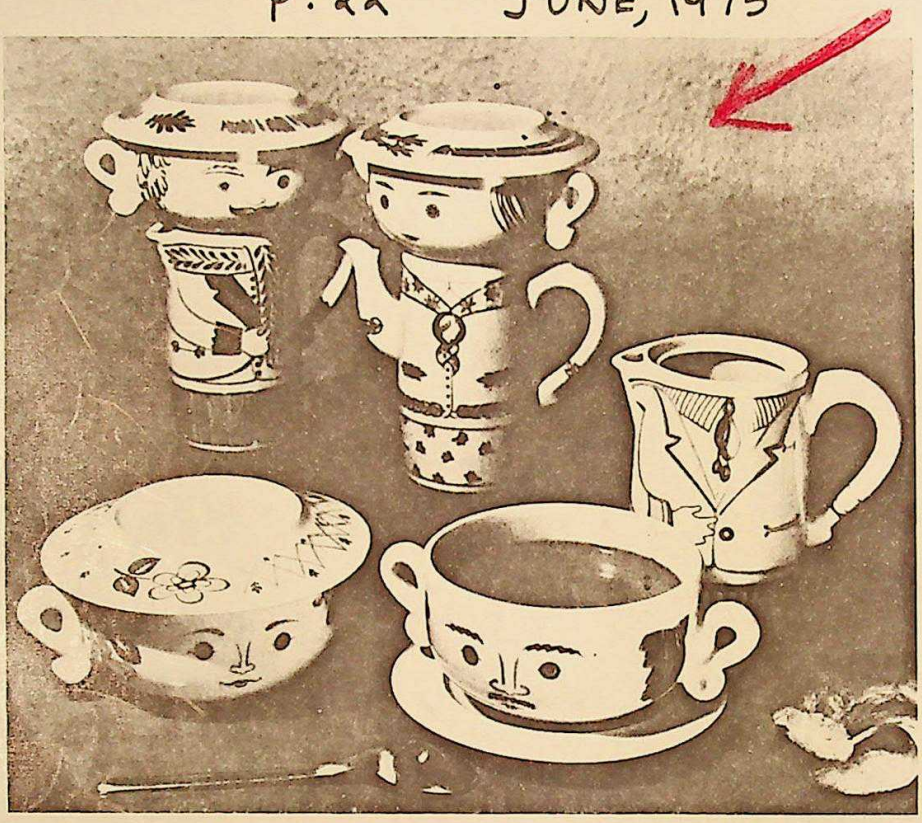
SIFBIHOR in 1975 reflects a return to traditional shapes and patterns

p. 22 JUNE, 1975



Elle et Lui is the name given by Porcelaine de Paris to these fun designs. There are three girl-boy pieces, a mother and father, and a grandfather and grandmother in the series.

A return to French traditional patterns, particularly those based on ancient Chinese designs, was discernible in the porcelain exhibits at this year's SIFBIHOR Exhibition in Paris in April. There were a few "contemporary" designs, in marked contrast to the situation in the late 1960s and early 1970s.

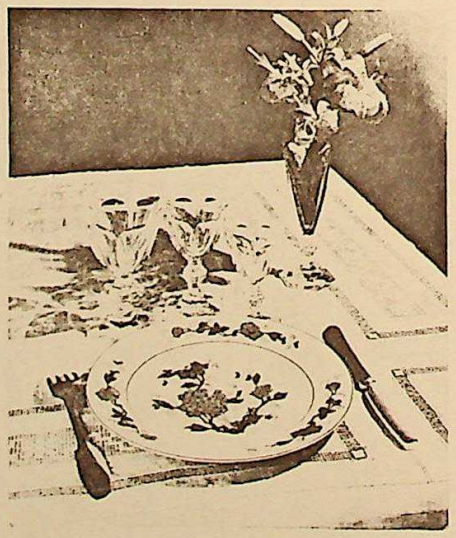
Shapes, nevertheless, were simple, many of them making use of startling colours. French manufacturers are also tending to favour pastural patterns depicting fruit, flowers, herbs and butterflies. Several manufacturers are strongly favouring celadon bodies.

With the earthenware manufacturers, country style ware was very much to the forefront, making use largely of pastel colours. The French tradition of producing services for special dishes including cheese, salad, fish and oyster sets, continues, but it was notable this year that some companies which have specialised in this kind of ware in the past, are diversifying into other lines which have a steadier market. It has been found that the specialist food set has a limited market and the need is for general purpose tableware.

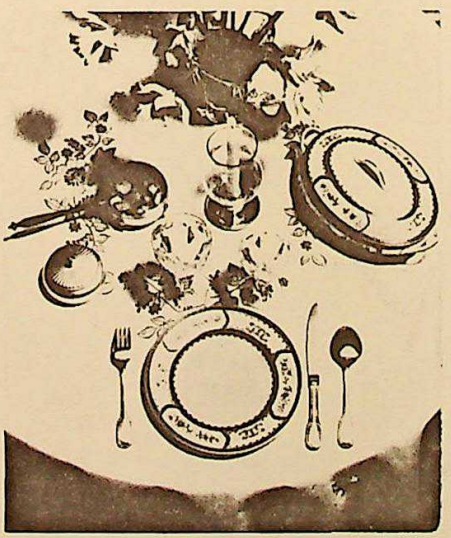
This year also saw a move by the earthenware manufacturers towards the style of the 1900's, but here again the trend towards all purpose services was evident.

Matching the trend in porcelain, in crystal there was a pronounced swing to classical designs, but with clean lines being favoured and practical aspects emphasised in the designs to enable tableware items to be put to every day use.

Last year was a good one for the French tableware and gift industry. Earthenware sales benefitted particularly; they were up by 22 per cent. Porcelain and crystal makers each boosted sales by 14 per cent and the jewellery and silverware makers by 11 per cent.



Reflecting the interest in Chinese designs, this plate is made from a celadon base and the decoration is in blue and red. The pieces comes from Porcelaine de Paris and the glasses from Baccarat.



Recamier, is the name of this pattern by GDA Porcelaine de Limoges; the glassware is by Baccarat, and the cutlery by Bouillet et Bourdelle.

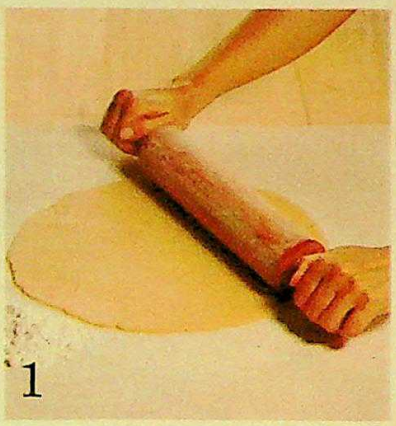
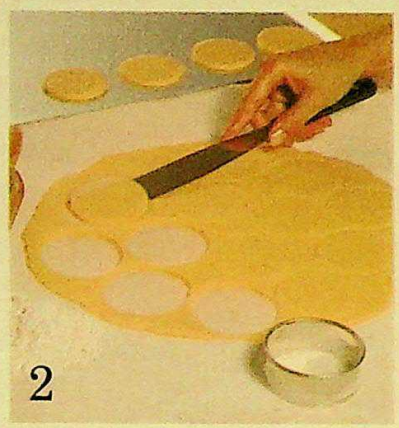
Good Old-Fashioned Sug





Sugar cookies are family favorites. For the beginning cook, the pitfall to avoid in making them is over-handling or over-rolling the dough, which will make the baked cookies tough. For tender ones, follow these tips:

Ingredients: To make the dough easier to roll, we use shortening rather than butter or margarine, which become too soft too quickly at room temperature.

Chilling: Chilling the dough firms it up—without the need to add extra flour. When dough is too soft it tends to stick more easily to the work surface, and adding flour to stiffen it will make the final product less tender.

Rolling: Use a lightly floured pastry cloth (or board) with lightly floured rolling pin (1). Roll one-third of dough at a time; keep remainder refrigerated until ready to use. To avoid overworking the dough, roll lightly and evenly from center to edge to desired thickness—paper thin for very crisp cookies, ⅛″ to ¼″ thick for softer cookies.

Cutting: Cut cookies as close together as possible, using a lightly floured cookie cutter. Keep small pile of flour on pastry cloth; dip cutter in flour before each use. Lift cookies with spatula and place about 1 inch apart on lightly greased cookie sheet (2). Using spoon, gently sprinkle ¼ teaspoon sugar on each cookie (3).

Cookie sheets: Use a sheet that is at least 2 inches smaller all around than oven, to allow for proper circulation of heat. When using only one, place on center rack. When using two, place on high and low racks; switch sheets once as cookies bake.

Cooling: When cookies are baked, remove at once from cookie sheets to wire racks in one layer to cool completely; never overlap them. Store tightly covered.

Comic mugs from Rainbow Designs year — Wild Flower, Deborah, Mimosa, Meteor, Fire Dance and Olive Berry. Another range matches some of the very popular designs already selling successfully—Stonehaven, Saffron Lace, Old Dutch, Orange Treat, Normandy, Saxony and Gothic. Entirely new this year are Springtime, Summertime and Autumn coffee mug sets, each with its own, seasonal accent. There are four different designs and colourways in each set. Another newcomer to the Bilton range is the Coffee Mug Bar, a compact, self-service stand that holds 144 mugs to present the widest possible choice.

Denby — the natural homemakers — produce mugs in all the Denby oven-to-tableware ranges, including the Renaissance Collection. As in the case of all Denby products, the designs range from the bold to the subtle and all have a streamlined elegance.

Carlton Ware of Stoke-on-Trent includes mugs in most of its ranges including Inn Signs (The George and Dragon, The Red Lion, The Black Horse etc), Moulin Rouge, Chess, Birds and Posters. The six assorted Moulin Rouge decorations are applied to an orange, white or yellow background while the Birds are available in six decorations. Carlton have, like many other companies, produced a special mug for the Silver Jubilee — although its contribution must be more original than most. Called the Kneeling Mug, it is elegantly balanced on legs and has recently become part of the company's Walking range.

Rainbow Designs of Surrey has met with considerable success with its range of Comic Mugs. Ideal for children, they include such famous characters as Mickey Mouse, Donald Duck, Bugs Bunny, Daffy Duck and Tweety and Silvester. Brightly coloured, these well-known cartoon characters are seen in various scenes all carefully selected to fit snugly on to the mug.

Why the Metropolitan Museum reproductions make superb presents

These reproductions are the only copies of the Museum's collections made exclusively by and for the Metropolitan Museum itself.

Because they can be made directly from the original works of art under Museum supervision and because the craftsmanship is of the highest quality, every copy is remarkably faithful to the spirit of the original.

The selection is surprisingly wide: ancient jewelry in gold and silver; Oriental and European porcelain; early American glass in crystal and rare colors; bronze from Egypt, Greece, China, and the medieval world; silver, pewter, brass, and pottery from Colonial America.

The prices range from $7.50 for a Greek fourth-century B.C. gold dolphin to $520.00 for an eighteenth-century Chinese export porcelain tea service decorated in a bold floral design of twenty-seven colors.

New pieces are added constantly, and the Museum publishes special catalogues of these every few months; the 116-page full-color Christmas Catalogue will be issued September 1. In addition to the reproductions, this year's catalogue illustrates new Christmas cards, stained glass, art books of particular interest, prints of rare Chinese and Japanese paintings, snowflakes, stars, and bells in gold and silver, together with more than one hundred other unusual presents including the 1979 Calendar, Treasures from the Far East.

To put yourself on the mailing list (most of the reproductions can be bought only by mail or at the Museum itself), send the coupon below with $1.00 to cover mailing.

Above: Footed Bowl. The exact purpose of this five-thousand-year-old Egyptian "walking bowl" remains somewhat of a mystery, but perhaps it is significant that many centuries later, a bowl with feet was used as the hieroglyph "to bring." The Museum's copy, like the original, is unglazed terracotta burnished by hand. Diameter 5". Price $15.00, shipping $2.00. Add state and local taxes for delivery within N.Y. State.

planet" to which Secretary Ripley refers in his column is what keeps me awake nights at my ripe old age of 86. Of all endangered species, Man is the least protected. Much of USA 1978 is falling apart. Dams are bursting. Inner cities are dying. Interstate highways are neglected. Roadbeds of railroads are unsafe.

Secretary Ripley, quoting Thomas Jefferson, says, "The care of human life and happiness, and not their destruction, is the first and only legitimate object of good government." But we seem to be heading from crisis to crisis to disaster.

Book review

Dear Sir: If "jazz in its pure form" is dead, I can't understand why some 100,000 fans were flocking to Sacramento Memorial Day weekend for the fifth annual Sacramento Jubilee of Dixieland Jazz, or why some hundred jazz clubs are flourishing in all parts of the country.

When David Lancashire reviewed George Lewis, A Jazzman from New Orleans, he should have been aware that his hometown of Toronto boasts a club. When he says "jazz in its pure form" seems to be on its way to the "embalmers" he can defend himself by hiding behind his own definition of "pure jazz."

Royal water lilies

Dear Sir: Thomas E. Lovejoy's article, "Royal water lilies: truly Amazonian," brought back memories to me. About 70 years ago, the Henry A. Dreer Nursery in Riverton, New Jersey, grew the great Victoria water lilies in a special pond—an unbelievable sight. I remember the nursery advertised it with a small boy standing on a leaf. The Dreer Nursery imported many exotic plants from various parts of the world—and it may have been in the packing around some Japanese iris that the Japanese beetle was brought into the country.

The classic lines of 'Atmos' are decorated in two styles. Atop the slender stems are stylised flowers. Alternatively, a hand cut net pattern is overlaid with angled leaves.

Imperatore's animal figurines in crystal are now gift packed in an attractive box of white and silver decorated with a green ball logo, with the linings of red and silver.

Alessi's 'Mercuio d'Oro' – a contemporary collection previously shown in matt finish – now harmonizes 24 ct gold plate gadroon edging with highly polished 18/10 stainless for a gleaming giftware set. A three-section folding cake stand, with round and oval baskets, an oval tray with handles are joined by an oval tray with handles with cocktail shaker, ice tongs, ice bucket and wine cooler.

Reminiscent of the tamborine is the 'Mizhar' group of three trays, also in the fine Alessi 18/10 stainless steel. In fact, the name can be traced back to a musical instrument used in Asia Minor during the first Millenium BC. The Alessi versions are shown in a galleried style, a wide unpierced rim or with handles. The HPL laminated heat- and scratch-proof base has three variations – 'Cast Iron', a matt black; 'Lace', with its delicate pattern in blue and grey; and 'Rose', of pink and mauve against a grey mottled background.

In spite of last year's less than auspicious economic climate in Italy, Pagnossin report they still produced more than 22 million pieces of tableware. And they appear set to maintain that momentum with the Spring '84 presentations.

'Sun' makes a strong statement for them in wide bands of yellow, burnt orange, green and blue, shown on the 'Saturn' shape. On the same form, 'Source' combines the swathes of colour with pencil thin circles in the same shades.

Indigo blue and coral dots and curves scatter over the 'Brazil' offering. 'Vietri' on the 'Sprint' shape is a restrained beiged pink with grey, red and blue checkered triangles scattered around the narrow edge of plates and saucers and on the edge of cups.

The palest of yellow is seen in gloss contrasting with a biscuit white for a set with as yet no name.

'Sprint' sports another geometric design with 'Caprice', a stepping-stone band of alternating blue and pink. In contrast with these pastel tones is mustard on ivory in ticker tape tiny dots forming stripes, and muted brown, called 'Thousand Dots'. Back to narrow stripes, this time in grey for 'Storm', with a basket filled with fruit.

Whether Swarovski will appreciate that copying is the best form of flattery remains to be seen. Certainly, Delta Krystall comes a close second in quality with their collection of attractive Italian crystal figurines and animals. Priced well, the pieces are packaged attractively in either black matt tubs or electric blue and black square boxes, complete with foam packing.

Just to remind you – the Autumn MACEF for 1984 – will be held from September 7 to 10. With all the anticipated activities, you will want to plan well ahead for reservations.

Sells Through.

Introducing Store-It-Alls for Pantry, Countertop, and Refrigerator.

Superseal has made a clear advancement in the art of food storage. Store-It-Alls, a new line of food containers that work beautifully from top to bottom line.

They have improved snap on lids that seal tight to keep food fresher. And they come in a choice of 4 classic colors. White, red, almond and blue.

What's more, the line comes in 9 practical, easy to use shapes and is still growing. What's not growing however, is the price. Store-It-Alls now cost less.

So, if you want to see your way clear to the top, look at Superseal's new Store-It-Alls.
